

It's a better machine

Can you believe machines this beautiful won the Mint 400?

For the second year in a row, Yamaha has won the Mint 400. A standard 360cc RT-1, ridden by Mike Patrick and Phil Bowers, finished first over all. And a standard 250cc DT-1C, the same type as won the Mint 400 last year, took the lightweight class, finishing sixth over all.

It just goes to show you that a bike can be an eye-stopper and still have a heart of solid dynamite. The winning Yamaha beat factory teams, machines up to 500cc's, 4-wheel entries and some of the toughest desert in the world. Pretty convincing. That's what we're talking about when we say "It's a better machine."
